BRDS HAD FLOWN.

It was the purpose of Sheriff Palmer to make a big haul at Jackson City and Rosslyn, just across the river from Washington, yesterday, but when he appeared on the scene, the prey had flown. It is seems that the gamblers had received a tip that he was coming and had made good their escape.

It is said that a great quantity of the paraphernalla had been removed to this city. One place which was wide open Friday night, was closed yesterday, and even the electric lighting fixtures had been removed, but the officers succeeded in making three arrests in Rosslyn and the same number in Jackson City. The men were bailed for their appearance before the justice on next Wednesday.

The churches of the two towns are urging the officers on to rid the places of the resorts. Mr. Mackey is already being called "The Little Jerome," because of his emulation of the man who is doing so much to suppress gambling in every form in New York:

When the law broke up the racing, the pool room was established and has been continued to this day, with occasional intermissions on account of "winds," which never had the effect of putting a final stop to the operations of the gamblers.

Valuable Cuff Buttons Gone.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BRISTOL, TENN. May 9.—J. F. Bullitt, attorney for the Wentz family, today visited the scene where the dead hody of E. L. Wentz was found on Sunday, and identified the body as positively that of the missing young millionaire. The identification was made by the riding suit, spurs, eys-glasses and other articles, including a slik hand-kerchief bearing the initials "E. L. W."

Near the scene was found his cuffs, from which the valuable buttons had been removed, and his revolver, three chambers of which had been discharged. The empty cartridges indicated that Wentz had had a battle with the bandits before he fell to his death. The inquest will not be held until to-morrow, as it was impossible for D. B.
